

Human Resource Development in Pediatric Surgery and Its Related Area in Mongolia

- National Center for Maternal and Child Health is the nation's tertiary institution for maternal and child health, including pediatric surgery. Mongolia plans to start liver transplantation for children at this institution.
- National Center for Child Health and Development of Japan is the nation's liver center and this institution will support Mongolia to establish pediatric liver transplantation program.
- Ultimate goal is establishment of liver transplantation program and improvement of quality of life of target patients.

Tentative schedule

Once foreign travel is allowed:
training of Mongolian physicians and nurses in Japan

liver transplant surgery, post-op care and long-term management

Once foreign travel is allowed:
Japanese experts will assist surgery and post-op care in Mongolia